King County S.O.*

This class will discuss the ever-changing legal landscape of law enforcement interactions with individuals in crisis. We will take a critical look at use of force considerations while wearing a crisis lens. Recent court cases have re-ignited conversations around law enforcement uses of force when interacting with persons in behavioral crisis. We will discuss what the courts considered (and didn't) and what the decisions mean to the patrol officer, law enforcement leaders and policies.

Topics Covered:

- Involuntary commitment laws
- Orders for detainment
- Suicidal call considerations and limitations
- Documentation of pre-force actions and considerations
- Case law as it relates to force
- Liability
